

THE CORACLE NET

Two corks that are an integral part of the net.

Two rings cut from a cow's horn

At the bottom you will see part of the lead line showing how lead is placed

Opening the nets, checking for snags before going on the river to fish.

Whilst the men went to work on their coracles, it was the woman's task to fix the nets, probably made easier because of their smaller hands. Eleanor 'Nellie' Elias – wife of William Ellis B.E.M.
